Are we becoming Monaco on the Colorado?

Are we implementing our new Comprehensive Plan?

Trulia provided real estate data to Governing compiled from multiple listing services, brokers and agents. Statistics, current as of September, reflect more than 5,500 home listings per city.

Home listings shown below represent shares of cities' total home listings that are affordable for a household earning the median family income, with maximum home values they can afford shown in parenthesis.

Boston's classic triple-decker homes have long been an affordable choice for middle-class families. Now that's changing.
